Introduction

A favorite tactic of cybercriminals is to lure victims to malicious websites which masquerade as legitimate websites, with the intent of getting them to reveal sensitive information such as usernames, passwords and credit card details.

Think you've got what it takes to identify a malicious website?

The image shows a side-by-side comparison of a legitimate GoDaddy sign-in page and a phished version. On the left, a real customer support agent is shown in a call center setting, smiling and wearing a headset. The background shows a computer monitor displaying the GoDaddy website. At the bottom of this section, text reads: "Need help? Call our award-winning support team 24/7 at (480) 505-8877". On the right, a phished sign-in form is overlaid on a blurred background. The form features the GoDaddy logo (a head with a lightbulb and glasses) and the text "Sign in". It includes input fields for "Username or Customer #" and "Password", both with "I forgot" links. There is a "Keep me signed in" checkbox with a help icon. A green "Sign in" button is present, followed by an "or" separator and a blue "Continue with Facebook" button. At the bottom, it says "Don't have an account?" with a "Create an account" link. The browser's address bar shows the URL "sso.godaddy.com/?realm=idp&path=%2F&app=mya".
